Belgium Being Evacuated

Turkey Will Ask for Peace

London, Oct. 3.—Turkey has notified Germany that she intends to propose peace to the allies, a Zurich dispatch to the Daily News declares.

Germany is said to have declared at length, partly in a menacing and partly in a pleading tone. Turkey's decision is believed imminent.

The dispatch further says Germany has declared her intention of occupying Bulgaria, militarily.

A Central News dispatch from Paris states on the contrary that the Turkish ministerial council has decided to maintain the alliance with Germany and Austria-Hungary.

ADMITS SITUATION IS GRAVE BUT SAYS IT IS NOT CRITICAL

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—"Bulgaria has created a grave situation, but it is not critical," Baron von Hussarek, Austrian premier declared Tuesday, in addressing the Reichsrath, according to a dispatch from Vienna today.

"We have taken steps, which are progressing. On the Balkan front our shoulder to shoulder, preserving the troops and Germany's are standing firmly knit alliance.

"Just as in battle, we will go hand-in-hand in the work of peace. The future which humanity is thinking of and longing for cannot be expected from the sword."

RUSSIANS WILL WIN BACK GROUND FROM THE GERMANS

Petrograd, via Stockholm, Oct. 5.—Russians will find a way to win back the territory controlled by Germany, President Zinovieff of the Petrograd trade union, promised today.

"The Germans must evacuate Pakov," said Zinovieff. "We will find a way of retaking all territory Germany has so outrageously devoured."

"There is no reason to notice the Brest-Litovsk and other supplementary treaties which are only of a provisional character. Comrade Lenin won't even take time to discuss them."

HUNS ON THE RUN REPORTS MARSHAL HAIG

London, Oct. 3.—The Germans are retreating on the 20-mile front between Armentieres and Lens, Field Marshal Haig announced today. They are evacuating highly organized positions which they had held since the beginning of trench warfare.

The retirement already has reached a maximum depth of two miles and the British advance is continuing.

The Germans have fallen back to the line of Cite St. Auguste, Dauvin, east of LaBasse, east of Aubers and west of Bois Grenier. (Cite St. Auguste is about a mile directly north of Lens. Dauvin is a mile and a quarter southeast of LaBasse, Aubers is four miles north of LaBasse. Bois Grenier is two miles directly south of Armentieres.)

"The British attack north of St. Quentin was renewed this morning."

"Progress made by the allied offensive in Flanders and before Cambrai and St. Quentin, combined with the losses incurred by his troops in their endeavor to resist the successful allied attacks, has compelled the enemy to undertake an extensive withdrawal," the statement said. "The retirement was not unexpected. We already have reached the general line of Cite St. Auguste, Douvrin, east of LaBasse, east of Aubers and west of Bois Grenier. The advance continues."

"Yesterday evening the enemy attacked north of Cambrai. He was repulsed, leaving prisoners."

"This morning we renewed our attacks north of St. Quentin."

"From Lens to Armentieres, the enemy is evacuating highly organized positions which he has held since the commencement of trench warfare, and which hitherto were defended with the utmost resolution. This not unexpected movement is being followed up closely by our troops, who are maintaining constant touch with the German rear guards and are inflicting many casualties and taking prisoners."

BELGIAN CITY OF ROULERS IS IN FLAMES

Paris, Oct. 3.—(12:13 P. M.)—The Germans have set fire to the Belgian city of Roulers.

Roulers, which was one of the principal objectives of the previous British drives in Flanders has been practically surrounded by British and Belgian troops. It is 12 miles north-east of Ypres.

IMPROVE POSITIONS.
Havre, Oct. 2.—(Delayed)—"Our local pushes at different points have improved our positions," the Belgian war office announced today.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY HAMMERS AWAY AT METZ FORTIFICATIONS

Military critics agree that no fortifications, however strong they may be, can long withstand the battering of modern artillery. The allies have been within sight of Metz since they eliminated the St. Mihiel salient. Allied artillery is now hammering away at the town.

REPRESENTATIVES OF OPPRESSED NATIONS MEET TO FORM FEDERATION

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Representatives of oppressed nationalities met here today to form a mid-European federation, to include subject people now living under the shadow of Teutonic domination.

Those represented included: Czechoslovaks, Poles, Ukrainians, Jugo-Slavs, Lithuanians, Finns, Rumanians and Italian Irredentists—sixty-five million people now largely without self-government and political freedom.

Resolutions demanding the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian empire and formation of a mid-European federation were to be adopted.

The representatives also plan to offer the entire morale and physical forces of their countrymen in Europe to the cause of the allies.

The purpose of the federation was outlined at the opening of the conference by Prof. H. A. Miller of Ober-

FOUR THOUSAND INFLUENZA CASES AT CAMP SHERMAN

Chillicothe, Ohio, October 3.—"Go to the limit," Colonel T. R. Rivers, camp commandant, told medical officers at a conference yesterday.

"No matter what the cost get what you need, and do what you think best to stamp out this disease. Don't wait, go ahead on my word and clean the camp of the disease."

These words from the camp commandant regarding the influenza epidemic came right from the heart. Colonel Rivers is on the job night and day, making tours of inspection and recommendations.

Wednesday's report to the camp surgeon's office shows 18 more deaths and 4,000 cases, about one-ninth of the population of the camp.

Miss Linn is the second nurse to give up her life in caring for the afflicted soldiers. First Lieutenant Michael J. Farrell is the first commissioned officer to die since the epidemic started.

Every organization commander and commissioned officer in camp has received instructions from Camp Commandant Colonel T. R. Rivers, and Camp Surgeon Major F. B. Duckwell to drop everything and turn their attention toward fighting the disease. Every one of the ten post exchanges have been ordered closed, and will remain closed during the epidemic.

Surgeons have been instructed to see that sufficient hospital corps men are stationed in each squad room to take care of the sick, and make them as comfortable as possible, as well as take temperatures, carry diets and keep the place clean.

While the camp medical authorities have not been satisfied to diagnose the cases as influenza, they are now doing so upon orders from Washington. The officials at Washington insist that bacteriological tests are not necessary to determine whether the epidemic is influenza.

Camp Surgeon Major F. B. Duckwell is of the opinion that with today's cases the disease will have run its course and that a decline in the number of new cases will be noticeable from now on.

Theaters and moving picture show houses, public schools, churches, lodges and clubs have been ordered closed in Chillicothe. Physicians' reports to Major Dana R. Robinson, chief of the United States Public Health Service here, show 27 cases in the city.

Edward Wilke, of Cincinnati, and Archie W. Graham, of Cleveland, in the camp of "conscientious objectors," have been court-martialed and sentenced to Ft. Leavenworth prison for refusal to obey commands of superior officers. Wilke was given ten years and Graham 15 years at hard labor at the completion of which they will be honorably discharged from the

TOLEDO IS FIRST TO REACH QUOTA IN LIBERTY LOAN

Toledo, O., Oct. 3.—The Liberty Loan Committee announced today that Toledo is the first city in the Metropolitan class to reach its quota in bond sales.

Raising its quota of $19,000,000 in five days, was reported to the treasury department this morning. There are 75,000 subscribers. No bank took any of the bonds.

Toledo was first in the third loan also.

ALLIES ARMIES ABOUT TO GATHER FRUITS OF ADVANCE

By Webb Miller.

Paris, Oct. 3.—While to the man in the street the onward drive of Marshal Foch's ten armies appears to have slackened somewhat the last few hours, the facts are that the battle has reached a point where a gain of a few hundred yards is worth more than a gain of miles was 72 hours ago. And, yard by yard the allied armies are clawing their way ahead over these precious bits of soil, the loss of which is throwing consternation into the hearts of the Germans.

Straws in the wind pointing to further retirement at several points, are multiplying every hour. Many military experts see as imminent the possibility for a general enemy retirement.

There is significant activity miles back of the line in the north of the Germans, they are throwing temporary bridges across rivers and canals and mining permanent roads and bridges.

But all along the line the Germans fighting is with the fury of despair in the attempt to stave off the penetration of Foch wedge into the most vital spots of the enemy defenses.

General Von Ludendorff is worrying most over the steady advance of King Albert and General Plumer in Belgium. The net work of Belgian railways is swarming with troop trains, rushing up every division the high commands can scrape from the depleted depots, in an effort to halt the Belgians and British on the Flanders plains.

In the regions of Cambrai and St. Quentin, the allied armies are about to gather the fruits of their advances. The fall of these cities will have an important repercussion farther north.

ENGLAND TURNS OUT 144,772 TONS OF SHIPPING IN MONTH

London, October 3.—Merchant shipping completed in United Kingdom yards totalled 144,772 tons in September, the British Admiralty announced today.

"This is 20,000 tons more than was finished in August. The rate at which the world's shipping is being reduced has been cut 58 per cent compared with 1917 figures, experts calculate."

FIX BLAME FOR NASHVILLE WRECK

Washington, Oct. 3.—Blame for the collision of two passenger trains on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad, at Nashville, July 9, today was laid at the doors of irresponsible operating officials.

The accident, which resulted in the largest death toll of any railroad catastrophe since 1912—191 deaths—was charged directly to negligence on the part of officials by the Bureau of Safety of the interstate commerce commission.

TWENTY TWO MEN KILLED BY TRAIN

Cleveland, Oct. 3.—Twenty-two workmen were killed instantly and 20 injured early today when a fast Pennsylvania passenger train ploughed through them as they were leaving a work-train at Bedford, near here.

A heavy fog is said to have obscured the passenger train's approach.

NEW CHANCELLOR OF GERMANY NAMED

London, Oct. 3.—Prince Max of Baden has been appointed German chancellor, succeeding Count Von Hertling, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received from Amsterdam today.

Huns Begin to Retreat on a Wide Front

Evacuation of Belgium appeared to be under way today.

Field Marshal Haig, in his night communique, announced that the Germans began to retreat on a wide front north and south of the La-Masses canal yesterday morning.

Earlier unofficial reports, stated that virtually a complete withdrawal from Belgium has been contemplated by the German high command for some time.

Belgian troops have practically surrounded Roulers, while the progress of the Anglo-Belgian armies has necessitated immediate steps for evacuation of the great industrial center of Lille and the submarine bases of Ostend, Bruges and Zeebrugge.

The Germans at the other extreme of the long battle front, have begun a retrograde movement in the Argonne forests. The enemy is falling back from the advanced positions to the newly constructed Kriehide-Stellung line, which runs from west of Grandpre to the vicinity of Danvillers.

Next in importance to the Belgian situation appears to be the gigantic encircling movement which is gradually pinching off the great St. Gobain Massif. General Debeney, operating south of St. Quentin, is reported to be advancing on the whole front between that city and Lafere as the northern half of this encircling movement.

To the south, General Berthelot is adding to the enemy's danger by striking northward, west of Rheims. His troops are now less than five miles south of Craonne.

French military experts see as a result of the pincers operation an immense German retreat, extending from east of Laon in the Champagne region.

Occupation of Cambrai had not been fully accomplished late yesterday. British troops were still occupying the northern and southwestern outskirts. Northeast of St. Quintin, where a British break-through appeared imminent yesterday, through breaching of the Beaurvoir-Fonsomme subsidiary defense line, the Germans averted the impending catastrophe by a terrific counter attack, which threw the British back and permitted the enemy to reoccupy Sequehart.

The fall of Damascus, officially announced yesterday added 7,000 prisoners to Gen. Allenby's haul in Palestine, making the total 67,000. British and Arab forces, after capture of the city, pushed rapidly northward, with Aleppo, nearly 200 miles farther on, as their obvious objective. Seizure of the latter city will give the British control of the railways from Damascus and Bagdad to Constantinople.

The French war office announces the occupation of Uskub, in Macedonia, by French cavalry. Two hundred German prisoners were taken there. A great quantity of material destined for the Central Powers was seized.

AMERICANS HAVE ADVANCED MILES

With the Americans West of Verdun, Oct. 3.—The Americans have now advanced from seven to eight kilometers (4 to 4 1/2 miles) through the tangled Argonne forest, since the start of their offensive. This forward movement has been accomplished by smothering machine gun nests, bridging great masses of barbed wire entanglements and dragging up artillery and wagons by hand.

American aviators are continuing their remarkable work observing and regulating artillery fire, fighting off German planes and strafing the enemy.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA

ROBERT WEDDLE IS NOW AT REST IN WOODLAND

Dressed in the uniform of a soldier of the United States army, which he had been privileged for so short a time to wear, and with military honors, Private Robert Emmett Weddle who died of pneumonia at the base hospital at Camp Sherman Sunday afternoon, was buried in Woodland cemetery, Thursday forenoon.

Just one month to the day from the date upon which he went to Camp Sherman to enter his country's service, the young soldier was laid to rest beneath a wealth of fragrant flowers, the messages of tender sympathy and love.

St. Brigid's church was thronged for the funeral service. Leading the cortege from the Weddle home on West Third street was the Cadet band from the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' orphans' Home and two companies of cadet corps, the firing squad and buglers in command of Major John C. Wurm. Superintendent J. P. Elton of the Home also walked at the head of the funeral procession. The pallbearers, Sergeant Stephen G. Phillips of the Q. M. C., at Camp Sherman, and 7 young khaki clad cadets from the Home, Frank Patton, Clarence Cordell, Lewis Obinger, Robert Fowler, Kenneth Kane, Robert Karns and Randolph VanScyok, marched beside the funeral car.

The Requiem Mass was conducted by the Rev. Father J. E. Quinn, who gave the funeral discourse, in which patriotism and love of country was the keynote. There were two selections, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and George P. Lampert rendered "Face to Face." The choir sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

At the grave in Woodland, a salute was fired over the grave by the firing squad from the Home cadets and "taps" were sounded by two boy buglers.

Tributes of flowers were unusually beautiful and profuse, as the young soldier was very popular about town, and his unexpected death aroused much sympathy for the stricken family.

"There's a Reason"

BELGIUM IS SLIPPING FROM GERMAN GRASP

By Carl D. Groat.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Winter will find Belgium and northern France out of the grasp of the Teuton.

Military authorities made this prediction today as the first of the great German break—the retreat eastward from the La Basse canal region—became an actuality.

Hammered by untiring legions, including vast reserves, the German retirement is likely to be extensive, probably as far east as Antwerp.

Already the enemy is shifting his U-boat bases out of Belgium and preparing to save what he can in the country ruthlessly trampled in 1914.

The objective of the American-Allied forces since the Marne turning point battle has been the wrecking of the German army. Today there is a chance that an attainment of that object will come far sooner than has been anticipated. In any case the retreat in prospect contains many elements of extreme danger to the boche. He has been fighting hard to escape a ruinous retreat, and it is not at all certain that he will be able to extricate himself without a disaster to his forces.

The surest sign of the times is held to be the state department advice showing preparations for relaxing the grip on Belgium. Authorities warn that the Hun may have the temerity to label this movement voluntary and use it as a sign of sincerity in further peace maneuvers. But the plain truth of the situation is that he is being forced out of Belgium and France by the reserves of battles raging from the sea to Verdun. Both American and foreign officials here are unanimous, however in warning against self-confidence at this time. While they foresee vast possibilities in the next few months they suggest that to let down now would be fatal. To this end they are urging over-subscription to the liberty loan.

Germany is not expected to throw up her hands before making a desperate try at peace through diplomatic maneuvers. Her silence, while Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey are trying for peace is considered significant. The Teuton, it is believed, is carefully studying allied expressions as to war aims and peace demands. Germany is preparing to step in at the psychological moment with a peace proposal on which she will stake her chances. If it fails, she will have to throw up her hands.

All are now 'back on the job' with much added energy for the big work that each is responsible for.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE AT BAPTIST CHURCH

A great patriotic service will be held in First Baptist Church next Sunday night, at 7:30, when Mr. Albert Kern, president of the board of trustees, of the O. S. & S. O. Home, and Rev. Albert Read will speak on "The Blended Flags."

This patriotic program was recently given at the O. S. & S. O. Home by the speakers, and it was enthusiastically received by the large audience.

Mr. Kern of Dayton possesses a beautiful and historic collection of flags of nations which he uses to illustrate his address, and he will blend the flags of the allies and honor the Star Spangled Banner.

Rev. Albert Read will speak on "The Union Jack of Old England." The music will consist of patriotic numbers, and an evening of inspiration and instruction will be enjoyed on Liberty Sunday.

The members of the G. A. R. and the W. R. C. and also of the S. V. and D. of V., together with all patriots, are cordially invited to attend.

Remember Liberty Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

CUT THIS OUT—IT IS WORTH MONEY

DON'T MISS THIS. Cut out this slip, enclose with 5c to Foley & Co., 2837 Sheffield Ave., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, whooping cough, bronchial asthma, or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Stick to Your Trench

Remember, you've got to stick to your trench—
Yes, stick like glue to your trench.
You dig while it's dark, and you work while it's light,
And then there's the "listening post" at night.
Though you're soaked to the skin and chilled to the bone;
Though your hands are like ice, and your feet like stone;
Though your watch is long, and your rest is brief,
And you pray like hell for the next relief;
Though the wind may howl, and the rain may drench,
Remember you've got to stick to your trench—
Yes, stick like mud to your trench.

Perhaps a bullet may find its mark,
And then there's a funeral after dark;
And you say, as you lay him beneath the sod,
A sportsman's soul has gone to his God.
Behind the trench, in the open ground,
There's a little cross and a little mound;
And if at your heart-strings you feel a wrench,
Remember, he died for his blooming trench—
Yes, he died like a man for his trench.

There's a rush and a dash, and they're at your wire,
And you open the hell of a rapid fire;
The Maxims rattle, the rifles flash,
And the bombs explode with a sickening crash.
You give them lead, and you give them steel,
'Til at last they waver, and turn, and reel.
You've done your job—there was never a blench
You've given them Hell, and you've saved your trench;
BY GOD YOU'VE STUCK TO YOUR TRENCH!

CAPT. C. W. BLACKALL.
(Fighting in France.)

We too can and will play the game. WE will stick to our trenches—ours can't be mentioned in the same breath with theirs but ours are not always Paradise. We can save till it HURTS to help these fighting men, and not one day or week, but every day till the war is won, and they come home to the greatest welcome humans ever got. Then they can look us in the eye and say, "By God, you've stuck to your Trench!"

We'll Stick; We'll Save---Till it Hurts.

And will put every sacred Dollar we can save into this Fight. We'll make our part as big as it is possible to make it in these trenches behind the lines.

ONE WAY THE PACKERS
"DO UP" THE CATTLE
RAISERS.

The Bureau of Markets of the United States Department of Agriculture held a significant hearing in Kansas City last week, attended by a hundred or more leading stockmen and by representatives of the live stock exchanges and packers. Doctor Brand, who was in charge of the hearing for the government, very wisely permitted the discussion to take the widest possible range and to cover every phase of live stock marketing. It was clearly shown by testimony presented by the stockmen and commission men present, that it frequently happened that cattle were not weighed for four or five hours after they were sold, and often as late as ten o'clock at night, although they had reached the market early in the morning.

The delay in weighing, it was charged, was due in a considerable measure to the indifference or design of the packer buyers, who, instead of getting on the market as soon as it was open in the morning, and beginning to buy, had a habit of waiting until ten o'clock or later and then taking an hour or more to look the market over before beginning their purchases.

This delay, it was charged, was especially noticeable on days when the runs were heaviest and when the need for early buying was greatest. The market was thus depressed and advantage was taken of the misfortunes of the stockmen who had to sell their animals because of the shortage of feed and water.

In addition to depressing the market, the delay in buying and weighing causes a loss to the stockmen of from twenty to fifty pounds a head in the live weight of their cattle, because of undue shrinkage. This loss to the farmer is a gain to the packer, for all stock is bought on the basis of a full instead of a shrunken weight.

It is estimated that the packers are getting by this means from $2 to $5 a head extra on the stock they buy, which, when the runs are heavy, often amounts to as much as $100,000 in a single day.

GOOD WAR NEWS AFFECTS THE STOCK MARKET.

With Bulgaria swooning, the Russian giant girding himself, the Holy Land in the grasp of the British, the legions of freedom moving forward grandly on the west front and the United States holding $6,000,000,000 between thumb and finger well up in the air where all the world can see it and know that it will come down presently, the spirit of industry and trade has moved to higher levels, evidence of which is seen from the rise in price of stocks point of view. The rise in stocks was not extraordinary compared with many we have had, but evidently there was something underneath of considerable strength doing the lifting.

It is a question now whether the money pool is a bigger man than Marshal Foch. One cannot believe that it is. But the logic of the victories in every field is irresistible.

It may be a reasonable suggestion to the powers that be, that an advance in the stock market is a good thing for the Liberty Loan. Many a speculator who has been oppressed by the dullness of past months will conclude that he can put another thousand or ten thousand into Uncle Sam's pocket out of profits that accrue to him on the rise.

"MAKE READY, TAKE AIM, FIRE!"

There is an order that when given to an army means business. The order is: "Make ready; take aim; fire!" The same words may suggest to any young man or young woman the very secret of success in life. "Make ready," by honest and thorough preparation for your life work, whatever it may be. Don't be a "Jack of all trades and master of none." Be a master of one. Then, "take aim." An aimless life is pre-doomed to failure. You must make up your mind definitely to do something if you would accomplish anything in the world.

And while you are taking aim make sure to aim high. It is an old saying that if you aim at the barn door you will never hit the weather cock on the steeple. It simply means that you must aim high if you would hit high. It is true for all real success in life. In any department of life we rarely get more than we expect to get. "According to your faith be it unto you," involves a principle valid every where. Expectation is the first step in achievement.

WITH THE MARINES IN THE BATTLE OF CHAUTEAU-THIERRY

Corporal John C. Wright, son of Deputy Probate Judge and Mrs. S. C. Wright, who is in the Marines and was in the fighting at Chateau-Thierry and other places where the Marines did such gallant work, has just concluded a term in an army specialist's school. He tells about it in the following letters to members of his family, and refers briefly to the fighting in which he has been engaged:

Aug. 24.—Our battalion just finished a 90-kilometer hike, and then no sooner did we get settled in our new billet, than I was sent to the Army infantry specialist's school. I am there now, and am sure enjoying my work. We have a very interesting course. I am studying automatic rifles and their connection in trench open warfare. The officers at this school are fine men, and we are treated well. On July 1, I was promoted to the rank of corporal.

You folks probably remember of my writing of Charley James and Short, both of whom enlisted at the same time as I, and were in the old Seventieth Company with me. James lost his right eye, and Short was wounded and probably will be in the hospital for seven or eight months, so you see that I was very lucky, and many times I would not have given two cents for my chances. I went through three gas attacks and suffered no ill effects afterwards, although some of the men were badly gassed. By reading the papers from the states, you can see that the Marines are doing some fighting over here, but every American regiment over here that I know anything about, shows that the men of the United States are fighters, and don't know what it is to retreat.

But believe me, the Huns are not whipped yet, but with the help of Almighty God, we will whip them. Just at this point I would like to say something about the French people. They are surely to be praised for their undying courage and confidence. They are a great people, and it makes a fellow feel good to be able to put in a few licks for them. They all think that the Americans are fine people, and they don't refrain from showing their gratitude to us.

August 25.—I am at school now and am having a good time along with my work. We have a nice place to stay and it is quite a change from what we have had lately. Have been over the top twice so far, and am still as live as ever. I have seen some awful sights and believe me, war is a horrid thing, but we will win, and maybe put an end to all wars.

We are getting good eats here, and I am getting as fat as I was out west. I weigh about 176 pounds and when I joined the Marines I only weighed 136 pounds, so you see that this outdoor life agrees with me.

September 8. I have one more week here at school. The last two weeks I have been studying grenades. It is an interesting course. I finished my course in the automatic rifle. I made 93 per cent on the tactical examination and 90 per cent on the mechanical examination. This was considered a very good grade. You asked me to tell you some of my experiences over here. That is a very hard thing to do as the censors are very strict, and really there is so much to tell that I would hardly know where to begin, so I think that I will have to let it all wait until I come home, which I hope, won't be very long.

The location of this school is at an old fort, built back in the time of—censored. It is very near all underground, and a person doesn't know he is there until he is on top of it. It will accommodate quite a lot of troops. It is built almost entirely of stone, as nearly all French buildings are. His address is Corporal John C. Wright, 47th Company, 5th Regiment, U. S. Marines, United States A. E. F. France.

"THE WIFE"

BY JANE PHELPS

KENYON ROBERTS AND HIS WIFE CALL UPON RUTH AND BRIAN CHAPTER LII.

That very night Ruth had her wish. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts called about eight o'clock. They were both delightful, as Ruth afterward said to Brian, and that she had not been mistaken in believing they would be, pleased her immensely.

Brian and Mr. Roberts had naturally drifted into a sort of business talk, so leaving Ruth and Mrs. Roberts to get acquainted. Ruth told her how she had wished they would call. Told it so naively that Mrs. Roberts wondered how she could be so charmingly girlish and yet be a business woman.

"I just knew they would be nice!" Ruth exclaimed enthusiastically when they had left. She would have been surprised and pleased, could she have heard Mrs. Roberts say to her husband: "She is perfectly lovely, Kenyon! I am sure we shall be the best of friends."

Equally interesting were the remarks of the two men:

"Rather an interesting chap," Brian had said when Ruth questioned him. "A likable man if he could forget himself," Kenyon Roberts had said of Brian.

It was fortunate for Ruth that she formed Mrs. Roberts's acquaintance just at this time. It kept her from thinking too constantly of Mollie King, as almost immediately she and Clara Roberts planned to spend considerable time together. They would play bridge twice a week, once in Ruth's apartment, and once in that of Mrs. Roberts.

"We will make a rarebit or some little thing," Mrs. Roberts had flushed a bit as she spoke. "Kenyon is trying very hard to work himself up, and we have to be most economical," she had explained.

"So do we!" Ruth had rejoined. "But I loathe doing housework, so I am doing something I love to do, and paying for the work."

"How fine!" Your husband must be awfully proud of you. I couldn't earn a penny to save my soul. But I love to cook and keep house. We couldn't afford this apartment if I didn't do every blessed thing except the washing. But it is necessary for a professional man to live in a good locality. So I do everything I can, so Kenyon can afford the rent."

Part of this conversation Ruth repeated to Brian. The part having to do with the necessity for a professional man having a good address.

"Yes, I guess she's right," Brian looked about complacently.

"You remember, I said the same thing before we moved."

A grunt was her only answer. "She is wild over our apartment. I promised to help her rearrange hers. She has awfully nice things, most of them wedding presents, she told me, but she hasn't an idea how to make the most of them."

"You ought to know; that's all you do, fussing about in people's houses. This is rather an improvement on the old place." It was the first word of praise Brian had given her for all her hard work in making the apartment so attractive.

"I think it is the only kind of thing I am good for," she smiled wryly. Brian's refusal to give her the least credit or encouragement always had hurt her more than he dreamed.

One evening Brian, restive, because things at the office were so slow, proposed they go and call on the Curtis's. Ruth readily agreed. She really liked both Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, and would be glad to see them, and they still owed their party call for the dinner party to which they had been invited.

"I am so glad to see you!" Mrs. Curtis said, insisting that Ruth lay off her wraps. "We'll have a game of bridge or something."

They talked a while before playing, then sat down at the table.

"By the way," Mrs. Curtis said, during the game.

ing one of the times when she was dummy, "I think you are the most generous woman I ever have seen."

"I wouldn't be as generous with Mr. Curtis."

"When was I generous? I don't understand," Ruth said, as she finished playing her hand.

"I call it mighty good in you to let Mr. Hackett run around with Mollie when you are away. She was in, the other day, and she said she had a wonderful time all the week. I scolded her, but she said you knew all about it, that Brian had told you."

"Certainly I did!" Ruth answered, wondering when Brian had seen Mollie to tell her he had confessed being with her while she, Ruth, was away. "Why shouldn't he?" she added, rather enjoying Brian's embarrassment. He had flushed dully red, and looked terribly annoyed.

"Oh, I don't know! but not many women would like it. I shouldn't! so don't you dare try it!" to Mr. Curtis, who laughed uncomfortably and replied:

"If I did I am afraid I shouldn't 'fess up' as Hackett has done. I wouldn't be brave enough." Then he changed the subject, and once more Brian was at ease.

"When did he see her to tell her?" kept running through Ruth's mind, causing her to play a very poor game, although, as a rule, she played excellently well.

Does Such an American Exist?

Can there be any American who is not doing all he can to help win the war? Who pretends to believe that we could have kept out?

Who whines or growls about the little sacrifice he is asked to make?

Who gets panicstricken and thinks that it would be better to compromise with the Hun and listens to the serpent whispering of German propaganda?

If such an American exists let him realize what Germany has done to Russia, which gave in and negotiated a cowardly peace.

There is only one thing for us all today and that is war to the bitter end—war until the Hun is utterly and completely destroyed.

INFORMAL REPORT OF INVESTIGATION OF WATER IS MADE

Dr. E. G. Schwartz, state epidemiologist, who was in Xenia Wednesday, on a matter foreign to the typhoid fever epidemic, told City Manager Kenyon Riddle, who was able to talk to him for a few moments only, that he did not expect to make a written report of the result of the investigation to determine the cause of typhoid fever in this city. He indicated, however, that there was a possibility that the city water was the cause.

Manager Riddle wrote to the State Department Thursday morning, asking him that some report in writing be made of the findings of the experts who probed the local condition, that at least there be submitted on paper the opinion which Dr. Schwartz made to City Auditor Roy C. Hayward when he called upon him while in the city Wednesday.

City Manager Riddle who did not meet Dr. Schwartz at the city building, and who had not previously known of his presence here, hurried to the railroad station and was able to speak to the expert for a few minutes before the train pulled out. Dr. Schwartz referred Mr. Riddle to City Auditor Hayward with whom he had talked regarding the typhoid probe.

Dr. Schwartz said that tests made in the state laboratories of samples of water taken at the Springfield pike pumping station, of the Xenia Water Company, showed the presence of the bacilli which causes typhoid, but that the tests did not show them in sufficient quantities to be harmful.

He said also that the process of disinfecting water which is used by the city water company is not positive and has not proven satisfactory.

By the method used here, the water is disinfected by hypochloride of lime, and the state health official said that liquid chlorine has been found to be the only safe method of purification. There is a possibility of the hypochloride losing its strength, and of its unequal distribution.

The disinfecting plant in use here was installed by the local company several years ago, under the supervision of the State Board of Health, and that department, it is understood, have never before criticized the method of disinfection, or suggested a change.

The water at the Springfield pike station is pumped from wells, into open reservoirs, from which it is pumped into the city mains. The water is disinfected before it is pumped into the mains. Dr. Schwartz said that at the time the local company installed its disinfecting plant, the method of purification used was the best then known, but that more recently it has been found dissatisfactory, and that liquid chlorine is now the approved disinfecting agent.

DOCTORS SAID LUNGS WERE TOO FAR GONE

But Miss Green's Recovery Proves That There is Hope for Many Consumptives.

"One of the best physicians in Terre Haute said he could not save me, as my lungs were too far gone. Another physician treated me for three months and then gave me up. Then I had three very bad hemorrhages and was nearly skin and bones. My lungs pained me all the time. Every time I coughed it nearly killed me. I commenced taking Milks Emulsion in April, 1906. My appetite improved. The soreness left my lungs and I commenced to gain in flesh and strength rapidly. My face soon lost that haggard look. I now weigh 159½ pounds. My health is fine and I am as strong as ever. I owe my life to Milks Emulsion."—Molly Green, 508 S. 2nd St., Terre Haute, Ind.

It is not claimed that all cases of consumption are curable, but Milks Emulsion has brought health in many so-called hopeless cases. It can do no harm and costs nothing to try at the maker's risk.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physies. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Sayre & Hemphill.

RETURNED TO XENIA AS A. M. E. PASTOR

At the annual conference in Barnesville, last week, Rev. P. S. Hill, who is connected with the Theological Seminary at Wilberforce, was returned to Xenia as Pastor of the First A. M. E. church, and entered upon his third year's work in this church Sabbath morning. Since accepting the pastorate of this congregation, two and one-half years ago, by his forceful preaching and quiet christian manner, he has won, not only the love and esteem of the entire membership, but the community in general. He was elected president of the Ministerial Association last year, and they join in welcoming him back.

MASKED GOLD

By JOHN HARVEY CURTIS

Lucky Levi Brill returned from the Alaska gold fields with a fortune, and it was represented not by drafts or bank notes, but by the real thing—gold. They called him "lucky" because he was one of the first in the Nome pioneer rush to make "a test strike."

He was old, unhandsome, but innocent of guile as a schoolboy. "I've gone through a heap to get in two years what most men spend a lifetime over," he announced. "Now I'm going to enjoy it rationally. First to build a home, then to find a wife, and a little love, a little farming and lots of comfort, and I'm fixed for life."

But Brill, good natured and kindly as he was, could not prevail on any maid or widow of the town to link her destiny with an uncouth man long past middle age. Then he went abroad into new fields to prospect for the helpmeet he felt to be essential to his plan of life.

"Rank, wild crazy over her, and no wonder!" commented a visitor to the city who had seen Miss Helena Drury, whom the daily prints announced was soon to become the "bride of the millionaire miner, Levi Brill." The newspaper, too, told of the princely anteupital gifts Brill had given his fiancée, of the mansion he had started to build in his native town. Her beauty was manifest to all, for the pride and pleasure of Brill was to show his friends a superb photograph of a bewilderingly beautiful woman, and finally it was reproduced in the local paper.

One morning early Levi Brill alighted from the city train, his face colorless, his eyes faded and dim, his gait unsteady. He had grown 20 years older in a single day. He spoke to no one, but repaired to the half-finished mansion that was never to be completed. He shut himself out from all human companionship, and soon the solution of the mystery was public property. Almost upon her wedding eve the perfidious Helena Drury had eloped with the man she really loved. Thenceforth Levi Brill hated all womankind. He checked the completion of the mansion, making habitable only a few rooms in one wing. He barely spoke to men acquaintances, never to a woman, and when some girl, bright and lively, neared him he would cross the street to avoid her.

When he came back to the house of desolation Brill went to a room where were stored the mementoes of his first last and only love venture. He had told nobody, but he had prepared a great surprise to bedeck the boudoir when Helena became his wife. Brill had gone to a famous plastic artist in the city and had arranged to have nearly all the gold in its natural state he possessed made into a life-size bust of the woman he loved. It was a marvelously natural presentment of the false but beautiful creature who had deceived him.

Brill removed the bust from the pedestal upon which, covered with tin-selled silk, it rested, and bore it to the room which thereafter he allowed no one to enter save himself. He got a pail of black paint and covered the bust with its mourning blackness, a gruesome memento of the one fatal romance of his life.

Two years went on and Brill had dissipated most of his fortune. He became a prematurely old-looking man. He had frequent spells of illness, but would allow no one but a hired man from the village to nurse him. Then one day fate cast in his way a girl of about twenty who was destined to care for him for years to come.

She was Wanda Rolfe, a poor, but refined village girl, the daughter of a music teacher who had just died. Brill had set traps and spring guns about the place to scare away tramps. Wanda had crossed the garden to receive on one side of her face a powder-dish charge that marred her beauty. It was beauty that Levi Brill now abhorred. To make up to the girl for her affliction, he offered her a home for life and she accepted. He was always more rose and sullen, but he cared for her respectably and practically adopted her.

Half a mile away from the place lived a widow, a Mrs. Graves. Her son, a young man of twenty-five, had been blind from his birth, but had become an apt musician, and his patient pleasing face and manners had made him a favorite with all the village. More than with all others, his gentle, lovable nature had made an impression on Wanda. Together they wandered through the wildwood until affection blossomed forth strong and lasting.

Little by little the means of Levi Brill dwindled. The house was placed under foreclosure. Wanda economized and became a veritable treasure to Brill. One day he was taken ill, the next day he died. "For you, Wanda," he gasped with dying breath, "all that is in my little room, all that is left!" Wanda gave up the house. It was when they were removing the odd mass of hoarded possessions of the past that two of the movers marveled at the weight of a blackened and dust-covered bust.

"It must be lead!" puffed and panted one of them, and as such it was conveyed to Wanda's home, its sterling worth fated to be discovered shortly, the legacy of the old miner to a faithful helper who now became the happy wife of Arnold Graves.

FEW CENTS DESTROYS YOUR DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy and beautiful—try this!

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp, of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen, and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 2450 Marcellus Avenue, Manassas, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Sometimes Judge Too Hastily.

It might be advisable for us to sound our own depths and backgrounds and cultivate a certain perspective and foreground for the people we ruthlessly condemn as hopelessly impossible, and so put so much greater an impediment in the way of their advancement to better things. Criticism is a cruel and too often an entirely unnecessary weapon to wield against those with whom we come in contact. There are very few people who are really "impossible" if only we would make the effort to find their good and worthwhile virtues.—Exchange.

"I am to be an usher at a friend's wedding soon. What will be my duties at the reception?" inquired Fred. It is also the duty of the usher to see that all of the ladies are provided with refreshments," advised his father.

SIX TONS OF CLOTHING SENT TO THE BELGIANS

Over six tons of clothing, or to be exact, 12,093 pounds, and 745 pairs of shoes comprised Greene county's donation to the destitute Belgians. Packed in 45 large cases this material, which will protect the Belgians from the cold of the coming winter, is speeding toward the east where it will be placed on board ship for immediate delivery overseas. The government has given orders that clothing and shoes for the Belgians shall have priority over all other freight and it is given straight and undelayed passage to the eastern seaboard. Altogether Greene county supplied 8,124 garments.

The response in every corner of America is said to have been equally as generous as it was in this county. In Columbus the deluge of clothing became so great that the workers became swamped and were forced to call a halt.

At present a drive for linen for the French is under way and it is expected that the response will be equally as generous as it was when the call was for clothing.

Turkey Will Ask for Peace

London, Oct. 3.—Turkey has notified Germany that she intends to propose peace to the allies, a Zurich dispatch to the Daily News declares.

Germany is said to have declared at length, partly in a menacing and partly in a pleading tone, Turkey's decision is believed imminent.

The dispatch further says Germany has declared her intention of occupying Bulgaria, militarily.

A Central News dispatch from Paris states on the contrary that the Turkish ministerial council has decided to maintain the alliance with Germany and Austria-Hungary.

ADMITS SITUATION IS GRAVE BUT SAYS IT IS NOT CRITICAL

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—"Bulgaria has created a grave situation, but it is not critical," Baron Von Hussarek, Austrian premier declared Tuesday, in addressing the Reichsrath, according to a dispatch from Vienna today.

"We have taken steps, which are progressing. On the Balkan front our shoulder to shoulder, preserving the troops and Germany's are standing firmly knit alliance.

"Just as in battle, we will go hand-in-hand in the work of peace. The future which humanity is thinking of and longing for cannot be expected from the sword."

RUSSIANS WILL WIN BACK GROUND FROM THE GERMANS

Petrograd, via Stockholm, Oct. 5.—Russians will find a way to win back the territory controlled by Germany, President Zinovieff of the Petrograd trade union, promised today.

"The Germans must evacuate Pakov," said Zinovieff. "We will find a way of retaking all territory Germany has so outrageously devoured."

"There is no reason to notice the Brest-Litovsk and other supplementary treaties which are only of a provisional character. Comrade Lenin won't even take time to discuss them."

HUNS ON THE RUN REPORTS MARSHAL HAIG

London, Oct. 3.—The Germans are retreating on the 20-mile front between Armentieres and Lens, Field Marshal Haig announced today. They are evacuating highly organized positions which they had held since the beginning of trench warfare.

The retirement already has reached a maximum depth of two miles and the British advance is continuing.

The Germans have fallen back to the line of Cite St. Auguste, Daurvin, east of LaBasse, east of Aubers, and west of Bois Grenier. (Cite St. Auguste is about a mile directly north of Lens. Daurvin is a mile and a quarter southeast of LaBasse, Aubers is four miles north of LaBasse. Bois Grenier is two miles directly south of Armentieres.)

"The British attack north of St. Quentin was renewed this morning."

"Progress made by the allied offensive in Flanders and before Cambrai and St. Quentin, combined with the losses incurred by his troops in their endeavor to resist the successful allied attacks, has compelled the enemy to undertake an extensive withdrawal," the statement said. "The retirement was not unexpected. We already have reached the general line of Cite St. Auguste, Daurvin, east of LaBasse, east of Aubers and west of Bois Grenier. The advance continues."

"Yesterday evening the enemy attacked north of Cambrai. He was repulsed, leaving prisoners."

"This morning we renewed our attacks north of St. Quentin."

"From Lens to Armentieres, the enemy is evacuating highly organized positions which he has held since the commencement of trench warfare, and which hitherto were defended with the utmost resolution. This not unexpected movement is being followed up closely by our troops, who are maintaining constant touch with the German rear guards and are inflicting many casualties and taking prisoners."

BELGIAN CITY OF ROULERS IS IN FLAMES

Paris, Oct. 3.—(12:13 P. M.)—The Germans have set fire to the Belgian city of Roulers.

Roulers, which was one of the principal objectives of the previous British drives in Flanders has been practically surrounded by British and Belgian troops. It is 12 miles north-east of Ypres.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY HAMMERS AWAY AT METZ FORTIFICATIONS

U. S. artillery in action before Metz.

Military critics agree that no fortifications, however strong they may be, can long withstand the battering of modern artillery. The allies have been within sight of Metz since they eliminated the St. Mihiel salient. Allied artillery is now hammering away at the town.

REPRESENTATIVES OF OPPRESSED NATIONS MEET TO FORM FEDERATION

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Representatives of oppressed nationalities met here today to form a mid-European federation, to include subject people now living under the shadow of Teutonic domination.

Those represented included: Czechoslovaks, Poles, Ukrainians, Jugo-Slavs, Lithuanians, Finns, Rumanians and Italian Irredentists—sixty-five million people now largely without self-government and political freedom.

Resolutions demanding the dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian empire and formation of a mid-European federation were to be adopted.

The representatives also plan to offer the entire morale and physical forces of their countrymen in Europe to the cause of the allies.

The purpose of the federation was outlined at the opening of the conference by Prof. H. A. Miller of Ober-

FOUR THOUSAND INFLUENZA CASES AT CAMP SHERMAN

Chillicothe, Ohio, October 3.—"Go to the limit," Colonel T. R. Rivers, camp commandant, told medical officers at a conference yesterday.

"No matter what the cost get what you need, and do what you think best to stamp out this disease. Don't wait, go ahead on my word and clean the camp of the disease."

These words from the camp commandant regarding the influenza epidemic came right from the heart. Colonel Rivers is on the job night and day, making tours of inspection and recommendations.

Wednesday's report to the camp surgeon's office shows 18 more deaths and 4,000 cases, about one-ninth of the population of the camp.

Miss Linn is the second nurse to give up her life in caring for the afflicted soldiers. First Lieutenant Michael J. Farrell is the first commissioned officer to die since the epidemic started.

Every organization commander and commissioned officer in camp has received instructions from Camp Commandant Colonel T. R. Rivers, and Camp Surgeon Major F. B. Duckwell to drop everything and turn their attention toward fighting the disease. Every one of the ten post exchanges have been closed during the epidemic.

Surgeons have been instructed to see that sufficient hospital corps men are stationed in each squad room to take care of the sick, and make them as comfortable as possible, as well as take temperatures, carry diets and keep the place clean.

While the camp medical authorities have not been satisfied to diagnose the cases as influenza, they are now doing so upon orders from Washington. The officials at Washington insist that bacteriological tests are not necessary to determine whether the epidemic is influenza.

Camp Surgeon Major F. B. Duckwell is of the opinion that with today's cases the disease will have run its course and that a decline in the number of new cases will be noticeable from now on.

Theaters and moving picture show houses, public schools, churches, lodges and clubs have been ordered closed in Chillicothe. Physicians' reports to Major Dana R. Robinson, chief of the United States Public Health Service here, show 27 cases in the city.

Edward Wilke, of Cincinnati, and Archie W. Graham, of Cleveland, in the camp of "conscientious objectors" have been court-martialed and sentenced to Ft. Leavenworth prison for refusal to obey commands of superior officers. Wilke was given ten years and Graham 15 years at hard labor at the completion of which they will be honorably discharged from the

ENGLAND TURNS OUT 144,772 TONS OF SHIPPING IN MONTH

London, October 3.—Merchant shipping completed in United Kingdom yards totalled 144,772 tons in September, the British Admiralty announced today.

ALLIES ARMIES ABOUT TO GATHER FRUITS OF ADVANCE

By Webb Miller.

Paris, Oct. 3.—While to the man in the street the onward drive of Marshal Foch's ten armies appears to have slackened somewhat the last few hours, the facts are that the battle has reached a point where a gain of a few hundred yards is worth more than a gain of miles was 72 hours ago. And, yard by yard the allied armies are clawing their way ahead over these precious bits of soil, the loss of which is throwing consternation into the hearts of the Germans.

Straws in the wind pointing to further retirement at several points, are multiplying every hour. Many military experts see as imminent the possibility for a general enemy retirement.

There is significant activity miles back of the line in the north of the Germans, they are throwing temporary bridges across rivers and canals and mining permanent roads and bridges.

But all along the line the Germans fighting is with the fury of despair in the attempt to stave off the penetration of Foch wedge into the most vital spots of the enemy defenses.

General Von Ludendorff is worrying most over the steady advance of King Albert and General Plumer in Belgium. The net work of Belgian railways is swarming with troop trains, rushing up every division the high commands can scrape from the depleted depots, in an effort to halt the Belgians and British on the Flanders plains.

In the regions of Cambrai and St. Quentin, the allied armies are about to gather the fruits of their advances. The fall of these cities will have an important repercussion farther north.

NEW CHANCELLOR OF GERMANY NAMED

London, Oct. 3.—Prince Max of Baden has been appointed German chancellor, succeeding Count Von Hertling, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch received from Amsterdam today.

Huns Begin to Retreat on a Wide Front

Evacuation of Belgium appeared to be under way today.

Field Marshal Haig, in his night communique, announced that the Germans began to retreat on a wide front north and south of the La-Masses canal yesterday morning.

Earlier unofficial reports, stated that virtually a complete withdrawal from Belgium has been contemplated by the German high command for some time.

Belgian troops have practically surrounded Roulers, while the progress of the Anglo-Belgian armies has necessitated immediate steps for evacuation of the great industrial center of Lille and the submarine bases of Ostend, Bruges and Zeebrugge.

The Germans at the other extreme of the long battle front, have begun a retrograde movement in the Argonne forests. The enemy is falling back from the advanced positions to the newly constructed Kriehide-Stellung line, which runs from west of Grandpre to the vicinity of Danvillers.

Next in importance to the Belgian situation appears to be the gigantic encircling movement which is gradually pinching off the great St. Gobain Massif. General Debeney, operating south of St. Quentin, is reported to be advancing on the whole front between that city and Laferre as the northern half of this encircling movement.

To the south, General Berthelot is adding to the enemy's danger by striking northward, west of Rheims. His troops are now less than five miles south of Craonne.

French military experts see as a result of the pincers operation an immense German retreat, extending from east of Laon in the Champagne region.

Occupation of Cambrai had not been fully accomplished late yesterday. British troops were still occupying the northern and southwestern outskirts. Northeast of St. Quentin, where a British break-through appeared imminent yesterday, through breaching of the Beurovoir-Fonsomme subsidiary defense line, the Germans averted the impending catastrophe by a terrific counter attack, which threw the British back and permitted the enemy to reoccupy Sequehart.

The fall of Damascus, officially announced yesterday added 7,000 prisoners to Gen. Allenby's haul in Palestine, making the total 67,000. British and Arab forces, after capture of the city, pushed rapidly northward, with Aleppo, nearly 200 miles farther on, as their obvious objective. Seizure of the latter city will give the British control of the railways from Damascus and Bagdad to Constantinople.

The French war office announces the occupation of Uskub, in Macedonia, by French cavalry. Two hundred German prisoners were taken there. A great quantity of material destined for the Central Powers was seized.

AMERICANS HAVE ADVANCED MILES

With the Americans West of Verdun, Oct. 3.—The Americans have now advanced from seven to eight kilometers (4 to 4 1/2 miles) through the tangled Argonne forest, since the start of their offensive. This forward movement has been accomplished by smothering machine gun nests, bridging great masses of barbed wire entanglements and dragging up artillery and wagons by hand.

American aviators are continuing their remarkable work observing and regulating artillery fire, fighting off German planes and strafing the enemy.

ROBERT WEDDLE IS NOW AT REST IN WOODLAND

Dressed in the uniform of a soldier of the United States army, which he had been privileged for so short a time to wear, and with military honors, Private Robert Emmett Weddle who died of pneumonia at the base hospital at Camp Sherman Sunday afternoon, was buried in Woodland cemetery, Thursday forenoon.

Just one month to the day from the date upon which he went to Camp Sherman to enter his country's service, the young soldier was laid to rest beneath a wealth of fragrant flowers, the messages of tender sympathy and love.

St. Bridgid's church was thronged for the funeral service. Leading the cortege from the Weddle home on West Third street was the Cadet band from the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' orphans' Home and two companies of cadet corps, the firing squad and buglers in command of Major John C. Wurm. Superintendent J. P. Elton of the Home also walked at the head of the funeral procession. The pallbearers, Sergeant Stephen G. Phillips of the Q. M. C., at Camp Sherman, and 7 young khaki clad cadets from the Home, Frank Patton, Clarence Cordell, Lewis Obinger, Robert Fowler, Kenneth Kane, Robert Karns and Randolph VanSoyk, marched beside the funeral car.

The Requiem Mass was conducted by the Rev. Father J. E. Quinn, who gave the funeral discourse, in which patriotism and love of country was the keynote. There were two selections, "Miss Helen O'Brien sang, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and George P. Lampert rendered "Face to Face." The choir sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

At the grave in Woodland, a salute was fired over the grave by the firing squad from the Home cadets and "taps" were sounded by two boy buglers.

Tributes of flowers were unusually beautiful and profuse, as the young soldier was very popular about town, and his unexpected death aroused much sympathy for the stricken family.

"There's a Reason"

BELGIUM IS SLIPPING FROM GERMAN GRASP

By Carl D. Groat.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Winter will find Belgium and northern France out of the grasp of the Teuton.

Military authorities made this prediction today as the first of the great German break—the retreat eastward from the La Bassee canal region—became an actuality.

Hammered by untiring legions, including vast reserves, the German retreat is likely to be extensive, probably as far east as Antwerp.

Already the enemy is shifting his U-boat bases out of Belgium and preparing to save what he can in the country ruthlessly trampled in 1914.

The objective of the American-Alied forces since the Marne turning point battle has been the wrecking of the German army. Today there is a chance that an attainment of that object will come far sooner than has been anticipated. In any case the retreat in prospect contains many elements of extreme danger to the boche. He has been fighting hard to escape a ruinous retreat, and it is not at all certain that he will be able to extricate himself without a disaster to his forces.

The surest sign of the times is held to be the state department advice showing preparations for relaxing the grip on Belgium. Authorities warned that the Hun may have the temerity to label this movement voluntary and use it as a sign of sincerity in further peace maneuvers. But the plain truth of the situation is that he is being forced out of Belgium and France by the reserves of battles raging from the sea to Verdun. Both American and foreign officials here are unanimous, however, in warning against self-confidence at this time.

While they foresee vast possibilities in the next few months they suggest that the let down now would be fatal. To this end they are urging over-subscription to the liberty loan.

Germany is not expected to throw up her hands before making a desperate try at peace through diplomatic maneuvers. Her strategy, while Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey are trying for peace is considered significant. The Teuton, it is believed, is carefully studying allied expressions as to war aims and peace demands. Germany is preparing to step in at the psychological moment with a peace proposal on which she will stake her chances. If it fails, she will have to throw up her hands.

Stick to Your Trench

Remember, you've got to stick to your trench—

Yes, stick like glue to your trench.

You dig while it's dark, and you work while it's light,

And then there's the "listening post" at night.

Though you're soaked to the skin and chilled to the bone;

Though your hands are like ice, and your feet like stone;

Though your watch is long, and your rest is brief,

And you pray like hell for the next relief;

Though the wind may howl, and the rain may drench,

Remember you've got to stick to your trench—

Yes, stick like mud to your trench.

Perhaps a bullet may find its mark,

And then there's a funeral after dark;

And you say, as you lay him beneath the sod,

A sportsman's soul has gone to his God.

Behind the trench, in the open ground,

There's a little cross and a little mound;

And if at your heart-strings you feel a wrench,

Remember, he died for his blooming trench—

Yes, he died like a man for his trench.

There's a rush and a dash, and they're at your wire,

And you open the hell of a rapid fire;

The Maxims rattle, the rifles flash,

And the bombs explode with a sickening crash.

You give them lead, and you give them steel,

'Til at last they waver, and turn, and reel.

You've done your job—there was never a blench

You've given them Hell, and you've saved your trench;

BY GOD YOU'VE STUCK TO YOUR TRENCH!

CAPT. C. W. BLACKALL.

(Fighting in France.)

We too can and will play the game. WE will stick to our trenches—ours can't be mentioned in the same breath with theirs but ours are not always Paradise. We can save till it HURTS to help these fighting men, and not one day or week, but every day till the war is won, and they come home to the greatest welcome humans ever got. Then they can look us in the eye and say, "By God, you've stuck to your Trench!"

We'll Stick; We'll Save---Till it Hurts.

And will put every sacred Dollar we can save into this Fight. We'll make our part as big as it is possible to make it in these trenches behind the lines.

ONE WAY THE PACKERS
"DO UP" THE CATTLE
RAISERS.

The Bureau of Markets of the United States Department of Agriculture held a significant hearing in Kansas City last week, attended by a hundred or more leading stockmen and by representatives of the live stock exchanges and packers. Doctor Brand, who was in charge of the hearing for the government, very wisely permitted the discussion to take the widest possible range and to cover every phase of live stock marketing.

It was clearly shown by testimony presented by the stockmen and commission men present, that it frequently happened that cattle were not weighed for four or five hours after they were sold, and often as late as ten o'clock at night, although they had reached the market early in the morning.

The delay in weighing, it was charged, was due in a considerable measure to the indifference or design of the packer buyers, who, instead of getting on the market as soon as it was open in the morning, and beginning to buy, had a habit of waiting until ten o'clock or later and then taking an hour or more to look the market over before beginning their purchases.

This delay, it was charged, was especially noticeable on days when the runs were heaviest and when the need for early buying was greatest. The market was thus depressed and advantage was taken of the misfortunes of the stockmen who had to sell their animals because of the shortage of feed and water.

In addition to depressing the market, the delay in buying and weighing causes a loss to the stockmen of from twenty to fifty pounds a head in the live weight of their cattle, because of undue shrinkage. This loss to the farmer is a gain to the packer, for all stock is bought on the basis of a full instead of a shrunken weight.

It is estimated that the packers are getting by this means from $2 to $5 a head extra on the stock they buy, which, when the runs are heavy, often amounts to as much as $100,000 in a single day.

GOOD WAR NEWS AFFECTS THE STOCK MARKET.

With Bulgaria swooning, the Russian giant girding himself, the Holy Land in the grasp of the British, the legions of freedom moving forward grandly on the west front and the United States holding $6,000,000,000 between thumb and finger well up in the air where all the world can see it and know that it will come down presently, the spirit of industry and trade has moved to higher levels, evidence of which is seen from the rise in price of stocks point of view. The rise in stocks was not extraordinary compared with many we have had, but evidently there was something underneath of considerable strength doing the lifting.

It is a question now whether the money pool is a bigger man than Marshal Foch. One cannot believe that it is. But the logic of the victories in every field is irresistible.

It may be a reasonable suggestion to the powers that be, that an advance in the stock market is a good thing for the Liberty Loan. Many a speculator who has been oppressed by the dullness of past months will conclude that he can put another thousand or ten thousand into Uncle Sam's pocket out of profits that accrue to him on the rise.

"MAKE READY, TAKE AIM, FIRE!"

There is an order that when given to an army means business. The order is: "Make ready; take aim; fire!" The same words may suggest to any young man or young woman the very secret of success in life, "Make ready," by honest and thorough preparation for your life work, whatever it may be. Don't be a "Jack of all trades and master of none." Be a master of one. Then, "take aim." An aimless life is pre-doomed to failure. You must make up your mind definitely to do something if you would accomplish anything in the world.

And while you are taking aim make sure to aim high. It is an old saying that if you aim at the barn door you will never hit the weather cock on the steeple. It simply means that you must aim high if you would hit high. It is true for all real success in life. In any department of life we rarely get more than we expect to get. "According to your faith be it unto you," involves a principle valid every where. Expectation is the first step in achievement.

WITH THE MARINES IN THE BATTLE OF CHAUTEAU-THIERRY

Corporal John C. Wright, son of Deputy Probate Judge and Mrs. S. C. Wright, who is in the Marines and was in the fighting at Chauteau-Thierry and other places where the Marines did such gallant work, has just concluded a term in an army specialist's school. He tells about it in the following letters to members of his family, and refers briefly to the fighting in which he has been engaged:

Aug. 24.—Our battalion just finished a 90-kilometer hike, and then no sooner did we get settled in our new billet, than I was sent to the Army Infantry specialists' school. I am there now, and am sure enjoying my work. We have a very interesting course. I am studying automatic rifles and their connection in trench open warfare. The officers at this school are fine men, and we are treated well. On July 1, I was promoted to the rank of corporal.

You folks probably remember of my writing of Charley James and Short, both of whom enlisted at the same time as I, and were in the old Seventieth Company with me. James lost his right eye, and Shorty was wounded and probably will be in the hospital for seven or eight months, so you see that I was very lucky, and many times I would not have given two cents for my chances. I went through three gas attacks and suffered no ill effects afterwards, although some of the men were badly gassed. By reading the papers from the states, you can see that the Marines are doing some fighting over here, but every American regiment over here that I know anything about, shows that the men of the United States are fighters, and don't know what it is to retreat.

But believe me, the Huns are not whipped yet, but with the help of Almighty God, we will whip them. Just at this point I would like to say something about the French people. They are surely to be praised for their undying courage and confidence. They are a great people, and it makes a fellow feel good to be able to put in a few licks for them. They all think that the Americans are fine people, and they don't refrain from showing their gratitude to us.

August 25.—I am at school now and am having a good time along with my work. We have a nice place to stay and it is quite a change from what we have had lately. Have been over the top twice so far, and am still as alive as ever. I have seen some awful sights and believe me, war is a horrid thing, but we will win, and maybe put an end to all wars.

We are getting good cats here, and I am getting as fat as I was out west. I weigh about 176 pounds and when I joined the Marines I only weighed 136 pounds, so you see that this outdoor life agrees with me.

September 8. I have one more week here at school. The last two weeks I have been studying grenades. It is an interesting course. I finished my course in the automatic rifle. I made 93 per cent on the tactical examination and 90 per cent on the mechanical examination. This was considered a very good grade. You asked me to tell you some of my experiences over here. That is a very hard thing to do as the censors are very strict, and really there is so much to tell that I would hardly know where to begin, so I think that I will have to let it all wait until I come home, which I hope, won't be very long.

The location of this school is at an old fort, built back in the time of—censored. It is very near all underground, and a person doesn't know he is there until he is on top of it. It will accommodate quite a lot of troops. It is built almost entirely of stone, as nearly all French buildings are. His address is Corporal John C. Wright, 47th Company 5th Regiment, U. S. Marines, United States A. E. F. France.

"THE WIFE"

BY JANE PHELPS

KENYON ROBERTS AND HIS WIFE CALL UPON RUTH AND BRIAN CHAPTER LII.

That very night Ruth had her wish. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts called about eight o'clock. They were both delightful, as Ruth afterward said to Brian, and that she had not been mistaken in believing they would be, pleased her immensely.

Brian and Mr. Roberts had naturally drifted into a sort of business talk, so leaving Ruth and Mrs. Roberts to get acquainted. Ruth told her how she had wished they would call. Told it so naively that Mrs. Roberts wondered how she could be so charmingly girlish and yet be a business woman.

"I just knew they would be nice!" Ruth exclaimed enthusiastically when they had left. She would have been surprised and pleased, could she have heard Mrs. Roberts say to her husband: "She is perfectly lovely, Kenyon! I am sure we shall be the best of friends."

Equally interesting were the remarks of the two men:

"Rather an interesting chap," Brian had said when Ruth questioned him. "A likable man if he could forget himself," Kenyon Roberts had said of Brian.

It was fortunate for Ruth that she formed Mrs. Roberts's acquaintance just at this time. It kept her from thinking too constantly of Mollie King, as almost immediately she and Clara Roberts planned to spend considerable time together. They would play bridge twice a week, once in Ruth's apartment, and once in that of Mrs. Roberts.

"We will make a rarebit or some little thing," Mrs. Roberts had flushed a bit as she spoke. "Kenyon is trying very hard to work himself up, and we have to be most economical," she had explained.

"So do we!" Ruth had rejoined. "But I loathe doing housework, so I am doing something I love to do, and paying for the work."

"How fine! Your husband must be awfully proud of you. I couldn't earn a penny to save my soul. But I love to cook and keep house. We couldn't afford this apartment if I didn't do every blessed thing except the washing. But it is necessary for a professional man to live in a good locality. So I do everything I can, so Kenyon can afford the rent."

Part of this conversation Ruth repeated to Brian. The part having to do with the necessity for a professional man having a good address.

"Yes, I guess she's right," Brian looked about complacently.

"You remember, I said the same thing before we moved."

A grunt was her only answer. "She is wild over our apartment. I promised to help her rearrange hers. She has awfully nice things, most of them wedding presents, she told me, but she hasn't an idea how to make the most of them."

"You ought to know; that's all you do, fussing about in people's houses. This is rather an improvement on the old place." It was the first word of praise Brian had given her for all her hard work in making the apartment so attractive.

"I think it is the only kind of thing I am good for," she smiled wryly. Brian's refusal to give her the least credit or encouragement always had hurt her more than he dreamed.

One evening Brian, restive, because things at the office were so slow, proposed they go and call on the Curtis's. Ruth readily agreed. She really liked both Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, and would be glad to see them, and they still owed their party call for the dinner party to which they had been invited.

"I am so glad to see you!" Mrs. Curtis said, insisting that Ruth lay off her wraps. "We'll have a game of bridge or something."

They talked a while before playing, then sat down at the table.

"By the way," Mrs. Curtis said, during one of the times when she was dummy, "I think you are the most generous woman I ever have seen."

Ruth caught Mr. Curtis's annoyed expression, but his wife, oblivious, continued:

"I wouldn't be as generous with Mr. Curtis."

"When was I generous? I don't understand," Ruth said, as she finished playing her hand.

"I call it mighty good in you to let Mr. Hackett run around with Mollie when you are away. She was in, the other day, and she said she had a wonderful time all the week. I scolded her, but she said you knew all about it, that Brian had told you."

"Certainly I did!" Ruth answered, wondering when Brian had seen Mollie to tell her he had confessed being with her while she, Ruth, was away. "Why shouldn't he?" she added, rather enjoying Brian's embarrassment. He had flushed dully red, and looked terribly annoyed.

"Oh, I don't know! but not many women would like it. I shouldn't! so don't you dare try it!" to Mr. Curtis, who laughed uncomfortably and replied:

"If I did I am afraid I shouldn't 'fess up' as Hackett has done. I wouldn't be brave enough." Then he changed the subject, and once more Brian was at ease.

"When did he see her to tell her?" kept running through Ruth's mind, causing her to play a very poor game, although, as a rule, she played excellently well.

Does Such an American Exist?

Can there be any American who is not doing all he can to help win the war? Who pretends to believe that we could have kept out?

Who whines or growls about the little sacrifice he is asked to make?

Who gets panicstricken and thinks that it would be better to compromise with the Hun and listens to the serpent whisperings of German propaganda?

If such an American exists let him realize what Germany has done to Russia, which gave in and negotiated a cowardly peace.

There is only one thing for us all today and that is war to the bitter end—war until the Hun is utterly and completely destroyed.

INFORMAL REPORT OF INVESTIGATION OF WATER IS MADE

Dr. E. G. Schwartz, state epidemiologist, who was in Xenia Wednesday, on a matter foreign to the typhoid fever epidemic, told City Manager Kenyon Riddle, who was able to talk to him for a few moments only, that he did not expect to make a written report of the result of the investigation to determine the cause of typhoid fever in this city. He indicated, however, that there was a possibility that the city water was the cause.

Manager Riddle wrote to the State Department Thursday morning, asking him that some report in writing be made of the findings of the experts who probed the local condition, that at least there be submitted on paper the opinion which Dr. Schwartz made to City Auditor Roy C. Hayward when he called upon him while in the city Wednesday.

City Manager Riddle who did not meet Dr. Schwartz at the city building, and who had not previously known of his presence here, hurried to the railroad station and was able to speak to the expert for a few minutes before the train pulled out. Dr. Schwartz referred Mr. Riddle to City Auditor Hayward with whom he had talked regarding the typhoid probe.

Dr. Schwartz said that tests made in the state laboratories of samples of water taken at the Springfield pike pumping station, of the Xenia Water Company, showed the presence of the bacilli which causes typhoid, but that the tests did not show them in sufficient quantities to be harmful.

He said also that the process of disinfecting water which is used by the city water company is not positive and has not proven satisfactory.

By the method used here, the water is disinfected by hypochloride of lime, and the state health official said that liquid chlorine has been found to be the only safe method of purification. There is a possibility of the hypochloride losing its strength, and of its unequal distribution.

The disinfecting plant in use here was installed by the local company several years ago, under the supervision of the State Board of Health, and that department, it is understood, have never before criticized the method of disinfection, or suggested a change.

The water at the Springfield pike station is pumped from wells, into open reservoirs, from which it is pumped into the city mains. The water is disinfected before it is pumped into the mains. Dr. Schwartz said that at the time the local company installed its disinfecting plant, the method of purification used was the best then known, but that more recently it has been found dissatisfactory, and that liquid chlorine is now the approved disinfecting agent.

DOCTORS SAID LUNGS WERE TOO FAR GONE

But Miss Green's Recovery Proves That There is Hope for Many Consumptives.

"One of the best physicians in Terre Haute said he could not save me, as my lungs were too far gone. Another physician treated me for three months and then gave me up. Then I had three very bad hemorrhages and was nearly skin and bones. My lungs pained me all the time. Every time I coughed it nearly killed me. I commenced taking Milks Emulsion in April, 1906. My appetite improved. The soreness left my lungs and I commenced to gain in flesh and strength rapidly. My face soon lost that haggard look. I now weigh 159½ pounds. My health is fine, and I am as strong as ever. I owe my life to Milks Emulsion."—Molly Green, 508 S. 2nd St., Terre Haute, Ind.

It is not claimed that all cases of consumption are curable, but Milks Emulsion has brought health in many so-called hopeless cases. It can do no harm and costs nothing to try at the maker's risk.

Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to run, down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Sayre & Hemphill.

MASKED GOLD
By JOHN HARVEY CURTIS

Lucky Levi Brill returned from the Alaska gold fields with a fortune, and it was represented not by drafts or bank notes, but by the real thing—gold. They called him "lucky" because he was one of the first in the Nome pioneer rush to make "a test strike."

He was old, unhandsome, but innocent of guile as a schoolboy. "I've gone through a heap to get in two years what most men spend a lifetime over," he announced. "Now I'm going to enjoy it rationally. First to build a home, then to find a wife, and a little love, a little farming and lots of comfort, and I'm fixed for life."

But Brill, good natured and kindly as he was, could not prevail on any maid or widow of the town to link her destiny with an uncouth man long past middle age. Then he went abroad into new fields to prospect for the helpmeet he felt to be essential to his plan of life.

"Rank, wild crazy over her, and no wonder!" commented a visitor to the city who had seen Miss Helena Drury, whom the daily prints announced was soon to become the "bride of the millionaire miner, Levi Brill." The newspaper, too, told of the princely anteupital gifts Brill had given his fiancée, of the mansion he had started to build in his native town. Her beauty was manifest to all, for the pride and pleasure of Brill was to show his friends a superb photograph of a bewilderingly beautiful woman, and finally it was reproduced in the local paper.

One morning early Levi Brill alighted from the city train, his face colorless, his eyes faded and dim, his gait unsteady. He had grown 20 years older in a single day. He spoke to no one, but repaired to the half-finished mansion that was never to be completed. He shut himself out from all human companionship, and soon the solution of the mystery was public property. Almost upon her wedding eve the perfidious Helena Drury had eloped with the man she really loved. Thenceforth Levi Brill hated all women kind. He checked the completion of the mansion, making habitable only a few rooms in one wing. He barely spoke to men acquaintances, never to a woman, and when some girl, bright and lively, neared him he would cross the street to avoid her.

When he came back to the house of desolation Brill went to a room where were stored the mementoes of his first last and only love venture. He had told nobody, but he had prepared a great surprise to bedeck the boudoir when Helena became his wife. Brill had gone to a famous plastic artist in the city and had arranged to have nearly all the gold in its natural state he possessed made into a life-size bust of the woman he loved. It was a marvelously natural presentment of the false but beautiful creature who had deceived him.

Brill removed the bust from the pedestal upon which, covered with tin-selled silk, it rested, and bore it to the room which thereafter he allowed no one to enter save himself. He got a pail of black paint and covered the bust with its mourning blackness, a gruesome memento of the one fatal romance of his life.

Two years went on and Brill had dissipated most of his fortune. He became a prematurely old-looking man. He had frequent spells of illness, but would allow no one but a hired man from the village to nurse him. Then one day fate cast in his way a girl of about twenty who was destined to care for him for years to come.

She was Wanda Rolfe, a poor, but refined village girl, the daughter of a music teacher who had just died. Brill had set traps and spring guns about the place to scare away tramps. Wanda had crossed the garden to receive on one side of her face a powder discharge that marred her beauty. It was beauty that Levi Brill now abhorred. To make up to the girl for her affliction, he offered her a home for life and she accepted. He was always more rose and sullen, but he cared for her respectfully and practically adopted her.

Half a mile away from the place lived a widow, a Mrs. Graves. Her son, a young man of twenty-five, had been blind from his birth, but had become an apt musician, and his patient pleasing face and manners had made him a favorite with all the village. More than with all others, his gentle lovable nature had made an impression on Wanda. Together they wandered through the wilderness until affection blossomed forth strong and lasting.

Little by little the means of Levi Brill dwindled. The house was placed under foreclosure. Wanda economized and became a veritable treasure to Brill. One day he was taken ill, the next day he died. "For you, Wanda," he gasped with dying breath, "all that is in my little room, all that is left!" Wanda gave up the house. It was when they were removing the odd mass of hoarded possessions of the past that two of the movers marveled at the weight of a blackened and dust-covered bust.

"It must be lead!" puffed and panted one of them, and as such it was conveyed to Wanda's home. Its sterling worth fated to be discovered shortly, the legacy of the old miser to a faithful helper who now became the happy wife of Arnold Graves.

FEW CENTS DESTROYS YOUR DANDRUFF AND STOPS FALLING HAIR

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy and beautiful—try this!

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen, and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to tell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 24522 Marcelus Avenue, Manassas, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry of a dangerous operation.

Sometimes Judge Too Hastily. It might be advisable for us to sound our own depths and backgrounds and cultivate a certain perspective and foreground for the people we ruthlessly condemn as hopelessly impossible, and so put so much greater an impediment in the way of their advancement to better things. Criticism is a cruel and too often an entirely unnecessary weapon to wield against those with whom we come in contact. There are very few people who are really "impossible" if only we would make the effort to find their good and worthwhile virtues.—Exchange.

Everyday Etiquette

"I am to be an usher at a friend's wedding soon. What will be my duties at the reception?" inquired Fred. "The ushers remain near the door of the room in which the reception is being held, escorting the guests as they arrive, to the bridal party and presenting each by name. It is also the duty of the usher to see that all of the ladies are provided with refreshments," advised his father.

SIX TONS OF CLOTHING SENT TO THE BELGIANS

Over six tons of clothing, or to be exact, 12,093 pounds, and 745 pairs of shoes comprised Greene county's donation to the destitute Belgians. Packed in 45 large cases this material, which will protect the Belgians from the cold of the coming winter, is speeding toward the east where it will be placed on board ship for immediate delivery overseas. The government has given orders that clothing and shoes for the Belgians shall have priority over all other freight and it is given straight and undelayed passage to the eastern seaboard. Altogether Greene county supplied 8,124 garments.

The response in every corner of America is said to have been equally as generous as it was in this county. In Columbus the deluge of clothing became so great that the workers became swamped and were forced to call a halt.

At present a drive for linen for the French is under way and it is expected that the response will be equally as generous as it was when the call was for clothing.

KIDNEYS WEAKENING?

LOOK OUT!

Kidney and bladder troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow upon you, slowly but steadily, undermining your health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease.

Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haaslem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you feel that you are entirely free from pain.

This well known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1636 the government of the Netherlands granted

Everett L. Thomas, New Madison.

The Ohio War Board
Says today

It's up to you to lick Ludendorff, so let every worker get in his wallop. What shall it avail us if we raise a huge army and fail to give it rifles or food?

The war program at home is just as vital as the field operations in France.

What are YOU doing to help win the war? Are you in war work? Is your bit your best?

If you are in non-war work, the United States employment service wants to help you get into essential war work.

Uncle Sam needs you now. What if our soldiers had failed to heed their call?

Enroll for war work at the nearest United States employment agency. DO IT TODAY.

HER CHANCE

Mr. Shyboy—Last night—I, er, dreamed I—er, er, proposed to you. Miss Hookem—Then I should say you are more sensible asleep than awake.

The Rev. A. J. Kestle officiated at the last rites for Mrs. Anna McDonald, which were held at the home on West Third street, Tuesday afternoon. There was no music with the service, but two favorite hymns of the decedent were read by the pastor. Interment was in Woodland, and serving as pall bearers were: H. H. Conklin, C. S. McDaniel, L. S. Barnes, Raymond Hopping, Elmer Anderson, and Harry Whittington.
